

MRS. TERWILLIGER CHOKED TO DEATH

Husband Confesses to Murder of Beautiful Girl Wife

CRIME SHOCKS ENTIRE CITY SUNDAY

Couple Had Been Married Less Than a Year and Had Frequent Quarrels—Murderer Had Contemplated Suicide.

Earnest L. Terwilliger, aged 22, now languishes in the county jail, almost a complete nervous wreck, the confessed murderer of his wife of but ten months, and her unborn babe. Twelve hours after the discovery of the body of his 18-year-old bride, the fleeing murderer was captured in the B. and O. yards, after having written a farewell note in contemplation of suicide.

The murdered woman was formerly Miss Jessie Barber, a respected daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Barber, of 65 Summit street, Second Street Hill.

One of the most atrocious murders in the history of Licking county was discovered Sunday morning, when at 7 o'clock, Mrs. Charles Nutter, living at 31 Harrison street, found the body of Mrs. Earnest Terwilliger, formerly Miss Jessie Barber, a bride of but 16 months, cold in death, lying on her bed in her room at the Nutter home, with her throat clawed and scratched by the hands of the murderer, who proved to be none other than the husband of the young woman, according to his own horrible confession.

Story of the Crime.

To an Advocate reporter Mrs. Nutter and Mrs. Addie Barber, the latter the mother of the murdered woman, related their knowledge of the affair and the troubles leading up to it, in an interview Sunday morning, shortly after the discovery of the bruised body of the young wife.

Mrs. Nutter said: "Last night (Saturday) we all went to the Auditorium. In the crowd was Earnest and his wife, Mrs. Barber, her daughter, Charlotte, and Mr. Nutter and myself. We started home about 10:30 and Earnest and his wife (Jessie) were ahead of us. They retired about 11 o'clock and I told them we would sleep until we got ready to get up in the morning and that when I had breakfast ready I would call them.

"I arose about 6:30 and started breakfast. In possibly a half hour, maybe less, I went upstairs to call them, and stopped at the door of my daughter, Edith, whose room is in the same hall and adjoining the double room occupied by Earnest and Jessie. I called Edith and got an answer and then went to the door of their (Earnest and Jessie's) room and knocked. I got no answer after I had knocked three or four times, so I put my face to the keyhole and called to them. I called a couple of times and then I became alarmed. I could not think why they did not answer, so I tried the door and found it unlocked. I walked into the first room and looked through the double doorway between the curtains, and there I saw Jessie lying partly crosswise on the bed, with scars and bruises all over her throat and her night gown torn and disarranged. I at once feared the worst and was afraid to go further where I could look back in the other corner, for fear Earnest was still in there and would get me, but I looked and saw that he had fled. His suit case lay open in the corner of the room and some dirty collars and cuffs lay scattered about the room.

"I went up and laid my hand on Jessie and found that she was cold. Then I knew. I ran screaming on through the hall and down stairs. Edith left her room and ran after me. I notified Mr. Nutter and he telephoned out to Jessie's folks. Some one called Dr. Anderson and the police. The neighbors began pouring into the house and that is all I can tell about the crime. I heard no disturbance and had no idea that such a hor-

TESTIMONY OF WITNESS WHO TOOK THE TREASURY MONEY TO GEORGE B. COX

Sensation in the Cincinnati Probe That Was Not Smothered by the Cox Injunction to Prevent Investigation.

Cincinnati, May 25.—The Gayman committee in the first moments of its session, Saturday morning, struck full at George B. Cox, the man who said "I am the boss of Cincinnati," and who has stood in that role at the front of the Hamilton county Republican organization.

Vivian J. Fagin, former deputy county treasurer and former Roosevelt appointee as marshal of the southern district of Ohio, testified that he carried to Boss Cox the envelopes from Cincinnati banks that contained the enormous loot from the county treasury, received by treasurers as "gratuities from banks in return for the depositing of the people's funds in the banks, but of which $214,000 was returned to the treasury by Treasurers Rud K. Hynicka, Tilden R. French and John H. Gibson, following the exposures of the Drake committee.

Before the startling testimony of Fagin, which caused his auditors to gasp and the legislative investigators to wait with bated breath the answers that Fagin slowly made to the questions of Theodore Horstman, chief counsel for the protesters, Hiram Rulison, county prosecutor, by grace of George B. Cox, the man under fire, joined with Frank Dinsmore, personal attorney of Cox, in a legal attack to court—Swing and Giffen—join the hearing.

This postponed the hearing till Monday. Fagin testified as follows: "In the investigation of the Drake committee it was developed that certain packages of money were sent to the county treasurer's office in consideration of the deposit of county funds. Do you remember any such envelopes?"

"I do."
"What was done with them?"
"They were usually tied up in packages and taken to George B. Cox."

"Did you ever take any to George B. Cox?"
"Many a time. I took them on the first or second day of each month, either to the saloon at Central avenue and Longworth, or to his office over the saloon on Walnut street."

"Did you ever have a talk with George B. Cox over the contents of the packages?"

"Not as to their contents. He knew what was in them."

"How were they marked?"
"Only with a few letters indicating the name of the bank. They were in the same condition as when received by Schott from the banks."

"What would Cox do with them?"
"At the Longworth street place he would put them in a little safe or throw them into a desk at the Walnut street room."

"Did Mr. Tilden French ever send you down with the packages?"
"He did not."

"Did he ever take them down himself?"
"He told me he did."

"What did he say?"
"Schott asked me if Cox had ever said not to tell Hynicka about the bank envelopes, and I said 'No.' Then he said that Cox did not want Hynicka to know that he received the envelopes."

"What did Leo Schott say?"
"That Cox was an awfully tight wad; that it had cost him $4,000 to be elected treasurer, and that he hadn't got any of the graft except the overs."

"Did you have a talk with Treasurer John H. Gibson?"
"Yes, after he was elected, but before he took his seat. It was on the train coming from the national convention at Philadelphia."

"What did he say?"
"He asked me a lot of questions as to the methods. He seemed to be afraid of the matter and questioned the validity of it."

"Did you tell him who received the money?"
"I did. I told him the method completely."

This ended the examination of Mr. Fagin, and H. E. Hope, cashier in the office of the present County Treasurer, Charles E. Roth, was called to give the accounts received from H. M. Rulison, county prosecutor, county treasurers and the refunders of interest paid by the banks. The amounts, he stated, were: From French, $39,450; from Gibson, $97,104.40, and from Hynicka, $58,440.23, making a total of $214,994.76. In answer to questions Mr. Hope said that under the depository law in 1907 the county treasurer had received in interest from deposits $74,428.38.

KNIFE

Was Used on Priest by Maddened Farmer

ATTACKS TWO OTHERS

Dozen Men Grapple Would Be Assassin, Pinioning Him to Ground

Thrust of Weapon Missed Priest's Jugular Vein by Narrow Margin.

St. Louis, Mo., May 25.—The condition of Father J. F. Lubeley, the priest stabbed by Joseph Schutte, the wealthy parishioner, after mass at Salsbury, Mo., yesterday, was very grave today. He is at St. Mary's infirmary here. Schutte, who was arrested at once, today issued a statement accusing the priest of meddling in his affairs, and declared "this thing is not over yet."

Salsbury, Mo., May 25.—Rev. Jos. F. Lubeley, pastor of St. Joseph's German's Catholic church here, was probably fatally wounded Sunday morning, when he was twice stabbed by a parishioner immediately after he had finished singing high mass.

After attacking the priest, felling him with the second blow, the frenzied man, Joseph Schutte, a prosperous farmer and devout member of the congregation, turned his freshly sharpened knife upon Mrs. Barbara Ginter and John Gates, two of those who rushed to the priest's aid.

Mrs. Ginter was cut in the hand, while Gates received two wounds, one in the hand and another in the elbow. Neither Mrs. Ginter nor Gates were seriously hurt.

Father Lubeley, who is a native of St. Louis, and whose mother and two brothers reside here, was stabbed in the right temple and in the right side of the neck, the knife just missing the jugular vein by a hair's breadth.

The clergyman was attacked from behind just after he left the altar, and was standing in the church door, in full view of about 400 worshippers, with one of whom, a woman, he was shaking hands.

Schutte rushed upon him before any one divined his purpose, and it was not until the horrified parishioners saw their beloved pastor reel and fall that they realized what was transpiring before their eyes.

A dozen men grappled with Schutte after he had attacked Mrs. Ginter and Gates, and he was quickly pinioned to the ground. He struggled desperately, shouting and snarling, and refused to be quieted, even when his wife and five children, who had accompanied him to mass, hurried to his side.

While officers rushed the farmer to the Salsbury jail physicians were hastily summoned to attend the wounded priest. He recovered consciousness quickly and, despite the gaping wound in his throat, directed those about him. Drs. Wilfred Baker and Franklin Welsh attended him.

The priest was given temporary aid and placed on the Wabash express and was hurried to St. Mary's infirmary, Fifteenth and Papin streets, St. Louis. He was accompanied by Dr. Baker and Miss Tillie Lubeley, his cousin and housekeeper.

Father Lubeley exhibited the greatest fortitude during the five hours' ride to St. Louis.

"I'll be all right unless the knife was infected," said the suffering priest, a smile lighting up his face as he lay stretched out on a sofa in the parlor car.

"I cannot imagine why Schutte attacked me," he said. "We were the best of friends and I never did anything, consciously or unconsciously, to incur his enmity. He must have lost his reason."

Except for a few moments following the attack, Father Lubeley's mind was clear regarding the near tragedy. "He attacked me from behind," he said, "and I had no chance to defend myself. Fortunately, the first thrust of the knife grazed my temple. It would have killed me had it struck directly. The doctors tell me the second blow missed my jugular vein by a narrow margin."

Schutte, according to members of St. Joseph's congregation, sat in the rear of the church during the high mass, though his family occupied their pew in the center of the church. He is said to have glared at Father Lubeley throughout the services, and particularly during the sermon, gnashing his teeth in seemingly great rage.

Not a word was uttered by the man, it is stated, to indicate that he intended harm to the priest, however, though his peculiar actions have caused comment in the town recently.

Lady Francis Cook, who was Miss Tennessee Claflin, a former resident of this county, having lived near Homer, Ohio, has been compelled by ill health to abandon her project of founding a school of fatherhood and motherhood in the Wheatley Hills, Long Island. Lady Cook's physician ordered her to cease her sociological activities for a time, and she returned to England on the steamship Baltic.

HARRY K. THAW DECLARED INSANE AND WILL STILL HAVE ASYLUM FOR HOME

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., May 25.—Harry K. Thaw is still insane, according to a decision filed by Supreme Justice Moerschauer in the county clerk's office here today.

His mental disorder is so manifest, the justice holds, as to render it unsafe to free him. It is denied that his commitment to Matteawan by Justice Dowling was unconstitutional, as maintained by Thaw's counsel.

Though Thaw is utterly defeated in the attempt to regain his liberty through habeas corpus proceedings, Justice Moerschauer has promised not to recommit him to Matteawan for the criminal insane until a plea can be submitted for his transfer to another state institution.

Thaw's attorneys have said that in the event of an adverse decision they would carry the habeas corpus case to the court of appeals. Should he be able to convince Matteawan for a more comfortable place of confinement, it is now understood there will be no appeal. After some time has elapsed, a fresh attempt will be made to secure his discharge as cured.

The justice sums up his opinion as follows: "I am satisfied from the evidence that the mental condition of Harry K. Thaw has not changed and I find that he is now insane and that it is so manifest as to make it unsafe for him to be at large."

LIVES

Snuffed Out When Cars Crashed Together

HUNDRED ARE INJURED

Trouble Occurs in Steep Incline of Philadel- phia Suburb

Glass and Wood Imbedded in Bodies and Many Passengers Were Trampled to Death.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 25.—Of 75 persons seriously injured in last night's crash of four trolley cars on Thorpe's Lane hill, ten are still in so serious condition that their death is imminent and thirty more will be confined for many days in hospitals. Two were killed.

Philadelphia Pa., May 25.—Awful in its results was a wreck of trolley cars on the Chestnut Hill traction line, about 12 miles outside the city late last night. Information is to the effect that two people are dead, and nearly 100 injured.

The day an ideal one, and all outgoing cars were crowded with pleasure seekers.

At the place where the accident occurred there is a steep grade, and one car, from some unknown cause, left the track at the bottom of this grade. Right behind it were others.

The derailing of one seems to have knocked the nerve out of the motormen of these others. Five motormen lost control of their cars, and one by one, in quick succession, they crashed into the first, their precious human freight having no chance to escape.

News of the disaster was at once sent to the city, and physicians, nurses and ambulances hastened to the scene. Meanwhile homes in the neighborhood were converted into temporary hospitals and every aid possible given by the citizens.

The current was cut off by the breaking of the trolley wires so that it was impossible to send relief cars to the scene.

The wreck occurred on the Chestnut Hill branch of the Schuylkill Valley company's line at Thorpe's lane. In the mad struggle of the passengers to get out of the smashed up cars, which were left in total darkness, many women and children were trampled upon, and it is these who constitute the majority of the injured.

Men who succeeded in escaping themselves were horror-stricken on learning that wives and children were still struggling in the cars, and plunged into the mass of passengers again to save them. The cries and moans of the injured were heard by residents in the sparsely settled neighborhood, who at once went to the rescue.

Passengers from other cars blocked by the accident also lent a willing hand and carried many of the injured into the houses.

A number of wealthy residents of Chestnut Hill got out their automobiles and turned them into ambulances. The more seriously injured were picked up and rushed to the Chestnut Hill and Germantown Hospitals. At least 30 automobiles were quickly pressed into service for this work, and the owners acted as chauffeurs.

Many of the passengers were found unconscious and wedged in the windows half in and half out. Glass and wood were imbedded in their bodies, and in the confusion and darkness it was feared that a sudden move would mean death. It was necessary in some cases to saw away part of the windows to extricate them.

Lying at the bottom of both cars the bodies of the dead were found, who had evidently been trampled in their mad attempts to escape. Their bodies were terribly cut and bruised. They lay near the doors and probably met death as they were trying to crawl through the narrow openings.

During the last five years there have been half a dozen serious accidents almost in the same place.

President Falliers of France, arrived in London this afternoon to visit King Edward.

AMUSEMENTS

OPENING OF IDELWILDE.

Idelwilde Park, under its new management, was opened Sunday, and it is estimated that several thousand people passed through the gates Sunday afternoon and evening.

Nothing more ideal could have been conceived than the weather given for the opening of Idelwilde Park, and to show their appreciation of the favor the people paid homage to the weather man by turning out liberally to see if the park was as pretty as it was last year. They found it even prettier. Much work has been done to make the place an ideal pleasure ground, and from noon Sunday until late Sunday night the pretty park was swarmed with people.

There are so many delightful features in connection with the park that it is hard to pick the most delightful one. One of the attractions that will please the most is the new vaudeville house. The bill which opened Sunday and which will continue until next Saturday night, is one of the finest ever brought to the park.

Charles Smith's Idelwilde Park band is a big attraction, and the band stand drew around it a big aggregation who listened to the concert before and after the show.

All the attractions at the park were liberally patronized and that the park has lost none of its popularity was demonstrated Sunday. This summer will see bigger crowds than ever. The mothers will ratify that desire of the youngsters to ride the merry-go-round and they will let the boys and girls ride to their heart's content. The park is altogether pretty, and as it has in addition the reputation of

WILLIAM WRIGHT PHOTOGRAPHED BY NEW YORK CITY.

Taken by a photographer while the machine was in full flight the picture of the Wright brothers' aeroplane printed in today's Advocate, is the first picture of the flying machine ever published, if in fact it is not the first ever made.

It was snapped at Kill Devil Hill, North Carolina, just after the famous brothers have started on what was intended to be a fifty-mile flight, but which ended in disaster after 5 miles had been covered. The aeroplane was going at the rate of about 45 miles when the snapshot was taken. The being one of the most magnificent works of the ancient mound builders, is visited by thousands of strangers during the season who simply stand in awe and gaze upon the relic of a mysterious race of people. New attractions are constantly being added and by midsummer there will be nothing to equal it in the state in point of beauty and interest.

ORPHIUM THEATER.

Lovers of novelty, sensationalism and good comedy should find the Orphium the place to spend a happy hour or so. The bill for this week machine was travelling with perfect ease, was about thirty feet from the ground and was ploughing through a 20 mile an hour coast breeze.

Many attempts have heretofore been made to get snapshots of the Wright Brothers' aeroplanes while in the air, but the brothers have successfully, up to this time, avoided photographers. The picture which the Advocate prints was taken from a distance of but a few rods and gives an excellent idea of the appearance of the aeroplane as it swung in and around the immense sand hills near Manteo, N. C.

will represent in the way of salaries the greatest outlay of money of any of the season's offerings. This means much for in modern vaudeville times managers do not put their money out for unknown acts, as talent is too plentiful. Mr. Lawrie's word for it, that he positively knows this to be the best attraction that has been offered this season, should be proof enough of its entertaining qualities. The bill consists of Paul Spessard's Bears, The Great Richards, Bert Bence and Rose, the Hebrew Monologist.

ELLERY'S BAND.

Ellery's famous band of fifty pieces, delighted thousands of visitors at Buckeye Lake Park Saturday and Sunday with the four excellent concert programs.

BASEBALL NINE'S BABY PET.

Infant Abandoned by Mother on Train Becomes Houston Club's Mascot.

The adoption of a nineteen-months-old baby by the Houston (Tex.) professional baseball club came out the other day. On a train on which were riding the members of the Houston team of the Texas league the players noticed a woman and a curly haired child. The woman requested W. E. Hester, a pitcher, to hold the child for a few minutes, then stepped into another coach and left the train at the next station.

A note found on the child gave its name as Edmund Winters, and the ball player decided to adopt the boy. Before the end of the journey every member of the club fell in love with the abandoned baby and entered into a compact to care for the little one, elect it the mascot of the club and provide a good home.

At the games in Dallas and Fort Worth the mascot was exhibited in the grounds during the game and was showered with money from the audience, and at Houston collections were taken up, and the baby now has a fund of more than $2,000 to its credit and still growing. Offers from some of the wealthiest families in the state to adopt the child have been refused, and the baby mascot will not be parted with by the club.

The mother, who is less than eighteen years of age, was found in Hillsboro and her tragic story unfolded. She had lived with a drunken father until twelve years of age, when she ran away from him. Before she was sixteen years of age she was married, and after the birth of her child her husband deserted them and disappeared. The child mother found employment in a packing house at Fort Worth, earning $9 a week. Recently the packing house cut down the number of its employees, and the mother, determined that the baby should not starve, gave it to the ball player.

NOVEL USE OF WEEDS.

Railroad to Cultivate Them to Protect Passengers From Dust.

To save $40,000 in wages and at the same time control to some extent the dust which troubles travelers is the plan of General Superintendent Buckley of the Oregon Railroad and Navigation company, who this year proposes to allow weeds to grow along the tracks wherever it is possible. Instead of keeping the track clear of weeds by cutting them with shovels, the section men are instructed to allow them to grow, keeping them trimmed close to the rails that they may not come in contact with the wheels of cars and cause trouble.

It is estimated that the company spends $40,000 each year in cutting weeds and incidentally keeping the soil worked so that winds catch the dust, and during hot weather enough of it is carried along the rapidly moving trains to almost strangle the passengers, says a Wallawalla (Wash.) correspondent of the Spokane Review. Wherever weeds have been allowed to grow dust has never troubled, and this fact has caused Mr. Buckley to try the experiment of allowing weeds and grass to cover the ties, especially the soil at the ends of the ties outside the rails.

The company is now figuring on sowing a short, thick grass on the line to form a mass of roots to prevent the dust from raising. It is said that some heavy, short grass can be grown for this purpose with splendid results, and even where the track has to be worked a great deal the grass will soon take root again and cover the surface so that dust will not raise by the suction of passing trains.

It isn't the selfish man who keeps his troubles to himself.

A divorce suit is merely the outcome of suitors being unsuited.

If it wasn't for his vices the machinist wouldn't amount to much.

MOVE TO SAVE OUR RESOURCES.

J. J. Hill Considers Gathering of Governors Most Important.

WANTS YEARLY MEETINGS.

Calls Conference in Washington "One of the Greatest Steps Forward Taken in Many Years"—Urges the Nation to Get Back to Nature.

James J. Hill, president of the Great Northern Railroad company, believes that one of the surest ways to insure continued prosperity in the United States is to carry on the work of the governors' conference recently held in Washington.

"That meeting called by President Roosevelt to insure the conservation of natural resources was," said Mr. Hill in his New York office to a reporter of the New York American, "one of the greatest steps forward that have been taken in many years. We need men at the head of this movement who will keep on fighting and not become discouraged by the many rebuffs that are sure to come."

"It may be that little progress will be shown for four or five years. The active worker of today may become a bit weary of not showing better results, but if we can only keep the right kind of people interested I am sure the results will benefit generations to come in this country."

"America today is suffering from too much surface work. We as a people have been satisfied to skim over affairs, forgetting that we have an obligation to our sons and grandsons."

"We have been destroying right and left, and now that the subject has come before the people in a national way I have the greatest hopes that good will come from the first meeting."

"My idea is to make the organization a lasting one. We want yearly meetings, oftener if need be, but not less than once a year. The people of the United States need to get back to nature. We want to pay more attention to the ground and less to stocks. Less Wall street and more farming will be one of the greatest salvations of this wonderful country. We have had hard times, and we are not out of the woods yet. We have been taught a lesson, and if it is a lasting impression then it has not been in vain."

"This is one of my busiest days, but I can't think of anything more important than to assist in trying to awaken our people to the consideration of our natural wealth of land."

"I want to see the states and the national government join hands in saving the natural resources. While the organization of governors has no legal footing, it will result in arousing the people of this country to the real danger that confronts them and their children."

"What of the new wave of good times? Is it due, or has it arrived?" Mr. Hill was asked. The venerable railroad magnate, leaning back in his chair, said slowly:

"It is due; that is one thing sure."

"And has it arrived?"

"Railroads and corporations in general have been accused of making hard time cries at various times," he replied. "Some people do not understand that it is not a cry of wolf, but a cry of distress. As a result, I dislike to talk of hard times. I think conditions are improving. Everything indicates this. But we are not back to our good times."

"But I would rather discuss the question of saving our forests, our mines, our land. That is the real foundation. Again, let us keep in mind that we want to look to the ground for results. Let us pay a little more attention to the farmer, the miner, the forester. It will pay us in the end. It will mean more business for the railroad man."

"I was glad to meet so many able men in Washington. You will find that the governors of every state in the Union will join in this movement to stop the waste of what nature has given us and that it will grow each year until in the end we can show results worth while."

"But I want to say right here that I believe Washington should never be selected as the place of another meeting of the kind. The atmosphere of the capital is essentially political. You must keep politics out of this institution."

"Where, Mr. Hill, do you think these conferences could be held to have the proper environment?"

"Never in a big city. I think a city like Springfield, Ill., would be an ideal place. Then there are the large universities and college towns. Ithaca also would be an ideal place for a meeting. The place chosen should be where big agricultural experiments are being carried on. There you would have object lessons to hand—lessons which are essential—for our redemption is to come from the soil and in no other way."

Red Eyed Kentucky Chicken.

George Ladenburger of Dover, Ky., has a sure enough curiosity in the possession of a red eyed chicken. It is not the eyelids that are red, as might be inferred, but the eyes themselves. The eyeballs are not bloodshot or inflamed, but are of a brilliant crystal red, while the sights are also red, but of a darker hue. So transparent are the eyes that when the head of the chicken is held between one's vision and the sun it appears as if the sun were shining through from one eye to the other and the head lighted up inside. The chick is as healthy and lively and can see as perfectly as any in the brood.

Don't Neglect Your Teeth

Many persons have a fashion of postponing the treatment of a bad tooth until forced by excessive pain, to seek a dentist for relief. Nine times out of ten, the patient has waited too long and what would have been a simple and inexpensive case of filling calls for a crown or artificial tooth costing a great deal more. Don't neglect your teeth. They need your constant attention and a reliable dentist should be consulted when a cavity is first noticed or the least pain felt. By proper treatment your teeth may be preserved indefinitely and a great deal of expense and useless suffering avoided. Ours is one of the best equipped dental parlors in the state. DO YOU WANT TO KNOW WHAT IT WILL DO? A Ford car holds the world's 24-hour record, 135 miles—the world's one-hour record, 50 miles—the world's record for twenty consecutive miles, 20 min. 30 sec.—a Ford in open competition ran 35 miles on 2 1/2 gallons of gasoline—car after car of Ford make has run 10,000 miles and more, on a single set of tires.

DO YOU WANT TO KNOW WHAT OTHER PEOPLE THINK OF IT? 16,000 Ford owners are today our best advertisers—Ford enthusiasm exists in every city, town and hamlet in which there is a Ford car—and that's pretty near everywhere.

DO YOU WANT TO KNOW ABOUT OPERATION AND COST? Add the fuel cost of a Ford for a year, the oil cost, the tire cost, all repairs, then add for depreciation and the total will be less than the cost to keep a horse that could accomplish one-fourth the work.

Ford owners who never owned a car before report by the score that after covering from 5,000 to 10,000 miles in a year their total operating expense has averaged $15 to $20 per month.

These things you ought to know before paying out your good money. Ask the Ford owners—many of them have owned other makes. Remember the Ford is the car that lasts longest and costs least while it lasts.

Calls Chicago the Metropolis.

Dr. Emil G. Hirsch of Chicago has started a widespread argument flatteringly to Chicago by his address to the Metropolitan club, in which he says Chicago is the metropolis of the country. He said: "Here are gathered the descendants of the nations. Sometimes it is said that New York is the metropolis. That is not true. A New Yorker is insular. He thinks that America ends with the Hudson and that all beyond is a little appendix."

Texas Flowers For Germany.

Orders have been received at Galveston, Tex., from Berlin for the shipment of 2,000,000 tuberoses from the Texas coast country to Germany. Another order calls for 500,000 Cape jasmines, which the German importers declare are becoming extremely popular in Germany. All of the Cape jasmines will be used in Berlin, while the tuberoses will be shipped to nearby provinces for cultivation.

Yours and Ours

We supply to your children just as good food as we demand for our children.

We know that the wheat should be steam-cooked for six hours. So we do that.

Each berry should then be flaked so thin that the full oven heat gets to the center.

Then a fierce heat must be applied to break down the granules of starch. So we toast the flakes for 30 minutes, at 400 degrees.

To make Mapl-Flake requires 96 hours.

There are many ways where this work could be slighted, and the taste would not show it.

Flaked wheat can be made, and is made, in one-fourth of the time we spend on it.

We could sell you the package for 10 cents instead of 15 cents, if we made those economies.

But we would not give half-cooked wheat to our children, so we don't to yours.

We know that starch, unless properly cooked, is insoluble. The particles are not separated so the digestive juices can get to them. So we spend 96 hours to get a food that's all food, all digestible.

And we flavor it with pure maple syrup, so that the food which is best for the child will be the food that it wants.

This flavor is expensive, of course, for we boil the pure maple syrup with the wheat when we cook it. But a child chooses food largely by taste. It is wise, for all concerned, to thus induce the child to eat the food it should have.

Mapl-Flake is the only wheat food which entirely digests. Our long process does all that is necessary. We use it in our homes. Please try it in yours.

GRAND RESULT OF
THE DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY ELECTION

Over 4,800 Democratic voters turned out and participated in the primary elections held last Saturday. It has been many years, if ever, since such a large number of Democrats turned out and voted at the primaries in Licking county. It certainly is a cheering and encouraging feature of the local political situation, for it signifies unmistakably that the entire Democratic county ticket will be elected this year by a larger majority than has been witnessed in Licking county for more than a decade.

It goes without the saying that the ticket nominated by the Democrats at the primaries last Saturday meets with popular favor even from our political opponents.

No stronger, better or more popular ticket has ever been presented to the voters of the county. With such an array of good men to select from in making their choice the voters who went to the primaries could not fail to put in nomination splendid candidates for the various positions, and they have done it.

The candidates whose names appeared on the ticket to be voted for were all men who were well and favorably known throughout the county. The Advocate is glad to note that they all made honorable campaigns in presenting their claims, all now abide by the will of the majority and all will loyally support the ticket nominated.

To speak personally of the various candidates nominated showing their merits, their qualifications and popularity, and how well they all deserve the public confidence, will be the province of the Advocate from time to time as the coming campaign progresses.

Suffice it on this occasion that no more competent or meritorious list of candidates ever composed a county ticket in Old Licking's history.

CAN REPUBLICAN POLITICIANS STOP
CINCINNATI PROBE?

The following from Falkner's letter to the Sunday Enquirer will certainly be appreciated by every Ohio citizen who has the independence and manhood to feel that the State should be freed from the Boss rule that now afflicts it:

"Interest in the Cincinnati investigation now centers almost entirely upon the question of whether the Republican politicians will be able to defeat it without exposing their hands in such a fashion that a record can be made. The solicitude of some of these patriots for the constitution is tearfully touching. 'Better that Cincinnati should be destroyed than impious hands laid upon the magna charta of Ohio's citizens,' said one of these imposing ducks this week, as he rolled his eyes. One of the Republican members of the committee Saturday said with frankness: 'The play is to delay this inquiry, and the fellows in the Statehouse are the persons who are doing it.' Now, there are not a thousand people in the Statehouse. The number that are taking care of this business for the party could be counted on the fingers of the hand of a man who had shaved it into a hay cutter and come out with a thumb and part of his little finger.

"If the contentions raised by them are correct, then the general assembly, one of the three sovereign branches of government, is absolutely estopped from seeking knowledge whereby it can frame legislation. It must depend upon either the auditor or state or the daily press, and it is no secret that the auditor would be extremely jealous. Inquiries of this character are denounced as judicial upon the authority of Judge Eugene L. Adler of Cincinnati, and Judge Warren Thomas of Trumbull county. Yet, they admit that no judge can inquire into any subject for the purpose of informing the general assembly. That would be legislative. Nor could a grand jury inquire and report. That is illegal.

"The humorous part of the jockeying is that it has served simply to arouse the suspicion of not only the Democratic members of the committee but also of their Republican brethren. It is certainly strange action when state officers, who should, upon the face of things have no concern with the affairs of either the general assembly or Cincinnati, get together and fix traps and spring guns with which to hamper and clog the investigators.

"They were never badly worried about the separation of the functions of government until this matter came up. And now they cannot sleep because of their great dread that the constitution will be wrecked."

WORDS OF PRAISE

FROM C. J. DUER, OF MILLERSBURG, FOR CONGRESSMAN W. A. ASHBROOK.

States That Old Soldiers of Holmes County Will Give Him Unanimous Support.

Millersburg, Ohio, May 25.

Editor Advocate:
Through the efforts of Hon. Wm. A. Ashbrook, our congressman, Mrs. Elizabeth Grave, a deserving widow, has been granted a pension by a special act of Congress. Her late husband, Frederick Grave, was a brave soldier and served over four years in Co. G, 51. Ohio Infantry. He died in January, 1907, and was drawing $24 per month pension at time of his death. I filed a claim under general law for the widow and her claim was rejected. The case was appealed and the assistant secretary of the interior sustained the pension office ruling. She was not eligible under act of June 27, 1890, having married the soldier after that date. Now comes on the scene our congressman who got all the facts in this old lady's case and he immediately introduced a special act for her relief. The committee on pensions in the house turned it down on the strength of the action of the pension office, but Mr. Ashbrook got a rehearing before the committee and put in more evidence of dependence and finally got it reported out favorably and it passed in the house, then went to the senate committee on pensions and was closely followed by Mr. Ashbrook, and was favorably reported out of this committee and immediately passed in the senate, from whence it went to the president. This bill and all other bills of a similar character never got out from under the watchful eyes of Mr. Ashbrook. He has had twice as many pension bills passed for his constituents as any former congressman.

Mrs. Julia A. Schriver, of Killbuck, had her claim filed under the law of April 19, 1908, and did not expect her pension for several months but in 22 days it was allowed. Mr. Ashbrook feels that he is in Washington as a servant of the good people of the Seventeenth district and is at their command and responds to every call.
He knows no politics while on duty at Washington but all of his constituents receive the same treatment and all can depend on answers to any communications they send to him. Mr. Ashbrook will receive almost the unanimous soldier vote up in Holmes county, including their friends and he deserves them for his tireless work in their behalf.

E. J. DUER.

A Presidential Prediction

James A. Edgerton's Election Forecast Based on a Close Study of the Candidates and the Political Situation—A Comparison of Bryan and Taft, Most Probable Nominees of the Two Great Parties, and Their Chances of Winning—Both Are Optimists—One Has a Laugh Like a Dynamite Explosion, the Other a Smile Like a Crack in a Melon.

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.

THE making of election predictions is hazardous. First, there is the moral certainty that the prophecy will be found wrong at some point and a fair chance that it will be wrong at all points; second, the forecast is bound to offend all but the partisans of the man whose favorable horoscope is cast. In case it is also an ante-convention bit of fortune telling the number of the disgruntled will be measurably increased, for this will include not only everybody of the opposite party, but the friends of all other candidates in the same party. For instance, if the luckless forecaster were to play up the exclusive and advance information that Bryan is to be the next president the prophet aforesaid would be without honor in any country except Nebraska, and there people would doubt his sanity. He would gain the ill will of all Republicans, Populists, Socialists, Prohibitionists, Independence leaguers and of the members of such other parties as may spring up between now and election. Not only so, but he would arouse the hostility of all Democrats except the rooters for the Nebraskan. Thus in gaining the friendship of one-fourth of the population the prophet of figures is sure to make enemies of the other three-fourths. Truly, it is anything but a pleasant outlook.

If the reader doubts the hazardous calling of the election forecaster the

In this case, however, we simply MUST have a victim. We cannot sidestep the question by failure to make a choice. In that event the big stick would wave for four years longer, which would throw a nervous fit into Wall street and some other places.

The next president of the United States will be William— Now, this is where you come in as a prognosticator, gentle reader—at least I assume you are gentle. How will you fill out the name? "Howard Taft?" will shout a legion of Republicans. "Jennings Bryan?" will vociferate another army of Democrats. So we are no nearer a solution than before. Yes, we are a trifle nearer, for it probably will be one of these two. Why? Because these are the two that will get the nominations. They already have a majority of the delegates—at least in sight. That Bryan would be named at Denver has been plain for months. That Taft would be given the standard to carry at Chicago has been apparent ever since Theodore Roosevelt threw his immense influence in that direction.

An Unbiased Opinion.

You understand that in giving my idea of the winners in the two great conventions—and the successful man in the election, for we are coming to that—I am cutting out all my own personal predilections, if I have any. I am looking at it as a cold matter of act would be equivalent to committing political suicide. Roosevelt has said he wants Taft, and that settles it. Taft it will be.

As for Bryan, his nomination has been certain so long that it is hardly worth while discussing it. Ever since he returned from his jaunt around the world—aye, ever since the political steam roller passed over a gentleman named Alton B. Parker—Bryan has had the Democratic candidacy for the asking. Why he should want it at all may be an enigma, but not the fact that he can grab it if he desires. Probably running for president has grown into a habit with him, or he may figure that, being yet a comparatively young man, he may keep on running long enough to slip in some time when the other side is not watching. However these things may be, it is apparent that in this year of our Lord he has pre-empted the Democratic mansion and has chased all the other would be candidates into the back lot. Bryan is now only forty-eight years old, and if he keeps on running till he is eighty he has nine or ten good races in him yet.

Bryan's friends say that he actually expects to be elected this year and that if he is he will never run again. What a temptation he places before the country!

Possibly he figures that in a fat man's race the man with the least embonpoint—pronounce it if you dare—should win out. Bryan has some flesh himself, but Taft makes him look like a living skeleton. If Taft should be elected he would make the hencoop that is used as an executive building bulge out at the sides.

Let us suppose now that it is the middle of July and that William Howard Taft is the nominee of the Republican party and William Jennings Bryan is the standard bearer of the Democratic party. Which shall we pick for a winner? Neither looks much like a champion, but we have had homely presidents before. Consider all points carefully before choosing your favorite. Of course you may decide to vote for the one you think will lose. Some of us do that frequently. This may be on the principle that we favor the underdog or on the general idea that we are "agin the government" or simply because the prospective loser belongs to our party. This is not an inquiry as to how we intend to vote, however, but as to the man we think will win.

In comparing the two candidates the first thing apparent is that Taft has held office all his life and Bryan has tried to. In this connection it is not fair to charge Mr. Bryan with lack of executive experience. That is not his fault.

Another point in common is that both have traveled extensively, but each is willing to forego the pleasures of leaving the country for four years.

Both Are Optimists.

But here resemblance as well as friendship ceases. In other ways the two are no more alike than an elephant and an owl. Taft claims to be the only sincere pure Roosevelt candidate, and Bryan says he was like Roosevelt before Roosevelt was like himself. Taft lacks eloquence, and Bryan has plenty of it. Both are about the same age, but Taft has more to show for it and is larger for his years. Taft laughs like an explosion of dynamite, and Bryan smiles like a crack in a melon. Both are natural optimists, but Bryan manages to conceal the fact when talking about Wall street and the trusts. On the railroad question Taft is for government regulation at cabinet meetings and Bryan favors government ownership when no one is listening. As for tariff revision, Bryan wants it right off and Taft wants it as soon as the stand patters will let him. On the money question Taft wishes the banks to issue the money and Bryan would have the government issue the money and distribute it through the banks. On other questions Secretary Taft's views may be determined by consulting "my policies" and Mr. Bryan's by reference to the Democratic platform.

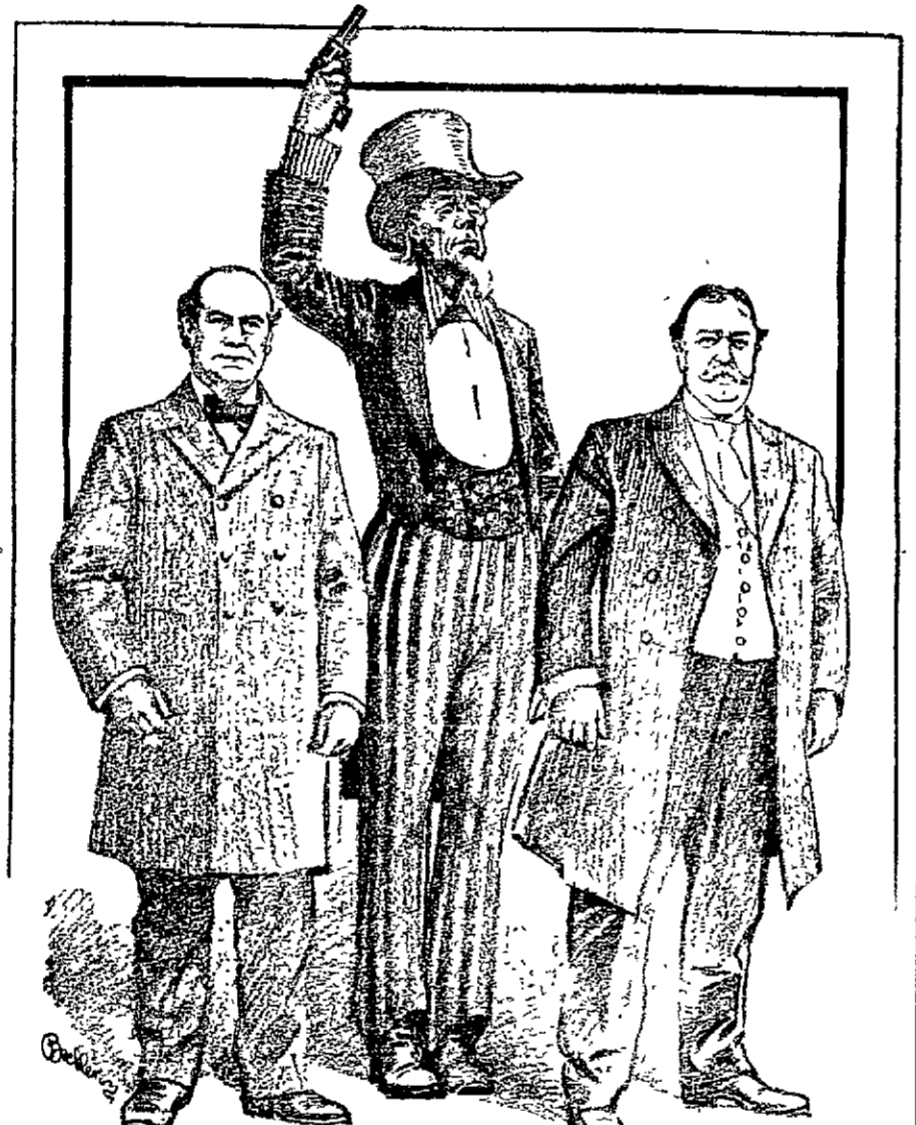

But all this does not determine which one will be elected. The country might do better by defeating both and electing Tom Watson, but it never will. Watson is getting almost as much in the habit of running for president as Bryan and gets more fun out of it. He knows he never can be elected, and Bryan does not, but may learn.

Not Much of a Cinch.

Taking everything into consideration, however, this election is not going to be as much of a cinch as some people would like to have it. There are several reasons. To particularize: First—Labor will cut Taft. There is no gainsaying this fact, and there is no good in trying to minimize it. The organized labor vote of this country is large and influential. Recently it has been aroused by three adverse court decisions. Taft was once a federal judge, and the workmen take vigorous exceptions to some of his injunctions.

Second—The colored vote will cut Taft. The Brownsville affair is not forgotten nor the secretary of war's part therein. These politicians who figure that because the negroes always have voted the Republican presidential ticket they are going to do it again this year should cease vague generalizations and get some definite, first hand information.

Third—Wall street and the "interests" will be lukewarm and will do little or nothing for either side. This will be a distinct loss to the Republicans, as these influences heretofore have been actively for the Republican ticket. Wall street does not like Bryan, but there are reasons why it would prefer him to Roosevelt or even one it regards as Roosevelt's legatee. With an adverse senate Bryan could do a bad fate that befell the foremost of the clan should be convincing. There was a day when General Charles H. Grosvenor, otherwise known as "Old Fingers," was one of the mightiest of the mighty. He was a member of the house machine, a debater whose tongue was feared by all and a high priest of the stand patters. But in an evil hour he gave way to temptation and began making election forecasts. And look at him now!

A Word of Caution.

Nevertheless I propose to make an election forecast. Before doing so a word of caution. Don't blame the editor for this. He can't help it. Blame me. I am the only one responsible. I am sufficiently far away so that you cannot get at me anyway, so it does not matter.

Of candidates there is no end. I have been writing of candidates till the world seems filled only with office seekers. Twenty-two candidates—so the count stands to date—Taft, Hughes, Cannon, Shaw, Knox, Fairbanks, Foraker, Cortelyou, La Follette and Cummins on the Republican side, and Bryan, John A. Johnson, Tom L. Johnson, Gray, Harmon, Folk, Hoke Smith, William L. Douglas, Woodrow Wilson, Senator Culberson, Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler and Jesse Grant on the Democratic!

Twenty-two candidates—certainly a plenty! Convention days came along and knocked off twenty.

Two little candidates running like fun! Election day came along, and then there was one.

But which one? There's the rub. That single little question is scheduled to give all of us no little anxiety and trouble for the next few months.

Which shall it be—which shall it be? I looked at John; John looked at me.

And neither could come to a conclusion. As a consequence it was nobody.

solutely nothing, while there are ways in which a Republican president can persuade a Republican senate.

Fourth—While Taft will lose from the conservative side, though not as much as Roosevelt would lose, he will also lose a number of radical Republicans that might vote for Roosevelt.

Fifth—With all of Mr. Taft's estimable qualities, he lacks a certain something—call it magnetism or what you will—which appeals to the public imagination. He is not a candidate to fire the multitude. Whatever flames are started this time must be by the man behind Taft.

So much for Secretary Taft's weak points. On the other hand, it must be admitted that Bryan has a natural majority of from half a million to a million votes to overcome. He has no certain states in the north and may even have to fight for one or two border states. He is handicapped by having burned his powder twice. Everybody has heard him and may not feel so wildly excited over an old story. It is hard to get a laugh out of a last year's almanac.

Bryan also will lose some to the Populists. Watson's vote will mostly come from the south. It is true, but even a few in the north may turn some state. Moreover, Watson may aid the Republicans by making a back fire campaign and diverting Bryan's attention.

Effective Sentiments.

With Taft as the candidate, New York and New Jersey would be uncertain were the Democratic candidate anybody but Bryan. They may be uncertain even if Bryan is the nominee. There is a feeling in the east and elsewhere that it would be only poetic justice since Bryanism has become popular to take the man along with the policies. Such sentiments as that cannot be measured, but have their effect.

One other thing—we have just passed through a panic, and panics always hurt the party in power. And still another thing—it never helps a presidential candidate before the people to be known as the understudy of the administration already in power. The voters like a new deal and like to think they made the new deal.

To sum up, as between Taft and Bryan do not be too certain that it will be Taft. Everything on the surface looks like a Republican victory, but surface indications are never to be wholly trusted, especially in years like this. This will be a hard fought campaign, one of the hardest fought in the nation's history. Personally I predict a close result.

Belittle him as some critics may, W. J. Bryan is not to be dismissed by a wave of the hand.

GAMES TODAY.

Lancaster at Newark.
Marion at Springfield.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS.

Marion 4, Springfield 1.
Lancaster 11, Newark 2.

A Mr. Wright, David Wright of Urichville, arrived in Newark Sunday, and was slated for the heavy lifting in the afternoon. He heaved all right, until ten men had scored and seven or eight in one inning, then he was pulled and Panabaker was sent in for the rest of the game. It was a terrible carnage, the worst the Molders have been mixed up in this season, but Wright was not to blame for it all, for there were four errors back of him that were costly.

The fatal seventh was a heartbreaker for both teams, and the men circling the bases for Lancaster made the frame look like a continuous performance. The story is told in few words, four bases on balls, four hits, two of them two sackers, and a wild pitch let the seven men circle and they did it to the slow call of Umpire Miligan. "One ball, two balls, three balls, take your base."

SATURDAY'S GAME.

Overplayed and out latted, the Lancaster team was defeated by the Molders, Saturday, in a clean, fast exhibition of base ball. The Lanks had the game won up until the fourth inning, but in the fifth the hitting of the Molders commenced and eleven hits and six runs were chalked up to their credit.

It was an ideal day for baseball and a good crowd was present to welcome the Newark team home from their rather disastrous trip. The Molders were early on the grounds and indulged in some fast practice, but the late arrival of the Lancaster team prevented the game being called before 3:15.

Mock of Lancaster and Panabaker of Newark were slated for the throwing, and while Mock did pitch although he was humped, Panabaker made a bad start in the first frame and was pulled. He allowed three hits, one of them a two sacker and walked two men he was derelict and two men scored. "Take Joe" Locke was sent to heaven and for the other eight and one quarter innings he allowed but two hits.

He was given gilt edge support, not a fumble was made behind him. The umpires worked good and the game was a pretty one to watch, for both teams worked with ginger. The four innings rolled along with the Lanks, striving to retain their lead and the Molders fighting for advantage. In the fifth the score was tied up by heavy slugger, Smith doubled and was sacrificed to third by Wright. Williams hit, scoring Smith. Locke went the trip liner to Gowdy, and Williams reached second. A wild pitch that threatened to tear the roof of the grandstand put Williams on third and when Abbott singled he scored. Snyder singled and P. Locke doubled but Abbott was out at the plate on a beautiful throw from Carter.

Both sides scored in the sixth, making their runs in a very similar manner. Calhoun was hit, stole second and scored on Gowdy's hit. For the Molders Smith scored after two were down he was walked, stole second on Wright's hit.

In the club with Gygil down on a fly to right, Murray broke the clouds with a lance and scored on Smith's single. Smith stole second and Wright popped up to Mock. Williams drove one to right that Carter failed to connect with and he landed on first while Smith came racing home on Carter's wild throw to the plate. On the same throw Williams reached second and on Locke's hit he scored.

FIRST ANNUAL TRACK MEET OF OHIO HIGH SCHOOLS

Great Meet Saturday on Beaver Field at Denison in Which Twenty-Three Schools Participate

North High of Columbus Won the Meet, Scoring Nineteen Points---Dayton Gets Second Place and Chillicothe Third.

Granville, May 25.--Under ideal weather conditions and in the presence of 500 spectators, including several hundred enthusiastic students the first annual track meet of the Ohio High School Athletic Association was held Saturday afternoon on the Beaver athletic field. North High School athletes, of Columbus, won the meet scoring 19 points. North High led its nearest competitor, State High, of Dayton, by 3 points; Chillicothe was next with 10 points. North High also took the relay race but one of the teams was disqualified for fouling and the race was awarded to Chillicothe High.

Over thirty high schools throughout the state, who are members of the newly formed association, had promised to participate, but only twenty-three sent representatives. Most of the athletes were from schools in Central Ohio but Geneva in the northern part of the state and Marietta from the southern part sent representatives. Most of the athletes came in Friday evening but a few made their appearance on Saturday morning. They were entertained at the fraternity houses and the boarding clubs. In several cases large delegations of supporters came with their athletes.

The meet began at 1:30 o'clock and was all over by 1:50. Every event was pulled off without a hitch and absolutely no friction was manifested between the officials and the athletes. With the exception of the serious injury of Leslie Hawk, of North High, Columbus, who was struck by a 12-lb. shot and laid out, nothing occurred to mar the meet, and it proved to be a grand success in every feature.

In the evening a reception was tendered the visitors in leveland hall at which time the various prizes awarded. The first prize, a silver loving cup, was carried off by N. H., of Columbus. The day banner floated over the Chillicothe delegation and the first three winners in every event were given medals.

The results of the meet were as follows: 100 yd dash--Won by Wise, State H., Dayton; Williams, Marietta, second; Bradford, E. H., Columbus, third. Time 16 1-5. 120 yd hurdles--Won by Moore, N. H., Columbus; Emphfield, New Philadelphia, second. Time 18 1-5. 440 yds. run--Won by McClure, Clyde, Tanner, N. H., Columbus, second; Koller, Pleasantville, third. Time 55.3. 220 yd. dash--Won by Wise, State H., Dayton; Williams, Marietta, second; Bradford, E. H., Columbus, third. Time 23 4-5. 220 yd. hurdle--Won by Poe; State H., Dayton; Drake, E. H., Columbus, second. Time 28.3. 880 yds run--Keller Pleasantville; Poe, State H., second; Crossman, C. Toledo, third. Time 29 2-5. Shot put--Gerald, Geneva, Cooke, N. H., Columbus, second; Hammond, Geneva, third. Distance 43.7 1-2. Running High Jump--Pickett, Bellville; Wise, State H., second; Mosher, third, Chillicothe; Height 5.2 1-4. Discus--Hammond, Geneva; Dunlap, Chillicothe, second; Geitz, New Philadelphia, third. Distance 97. Running Broad Jump--Cooke, N. H., Columbus, Jolly, Bucyrus, second; Bradford, E. Columbus. Distance 21.5. Throwing Hammer--Dislap, Chillicothe; Holbs, Bellville, second; Geitz, New Philadelphia, third. Distance 120.2 1-2. Pole Vault--Holbs, Bellville; Desser, C. Toledo, second; Egan, Pleasantville, third. Distance 8.9. The only unique feature of the scholastic meet held in Granville Saturday was the injury of Leslie Hawk, a senior of the North High school of Columbus, who was to represent North High of Columbus in the 800-yard run, and in the relay race. He was struck in the back by a 16-pound hammer, thrown by another North High student, Hawk, who was awaking his turn, lay before the tent in which the North High boys crossed. Another North High boy took his place in the athletic field, and whirled the hammer over his head preparatory to throwing it. Through some mistake, the hammer slipped and was thrown off about 90 feet at a target, striking Hawk as he lay prone on the ground. For a short time it was thought that the young man had been fatally injured as he immediately lapsed into unconsciousness. He was carried off the field and taken to the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity house, where Dr. Follett attended to his injuries, which consisted of severe bruises and nervous shock. He will be taken to his home in Columbus this afternoon if his condition warrants.

The injured young man is a son of Leslie E. Hawk, an evangelist of Columbus. He is prominent in the affairs of the North High school, being editor of the Polar, the high school paper, and assigned to the part of Shylock in the play, "Merchant of Venice," to be given in the middle part of June at the Great Southern theatre in Columbus.

"I had Barber's Itch for twenty years and tried most everything with no relief. Then I used YOUR Ointment, and after a few applications my face was entirely cured, when I think it wonderful as my case was so severe."--E. W. BECKMAN, 303 10th St., Detroit, Mich.

The severest test to which any skin remedy can be put is in the treatment of Barber's Itch. This disease is caused by a swarming mass of microbes, which does not leave the skin until they begin to decimate their number. The above case should interest those similarly afflicted. MURDER and sit for long periods with his face buried in his hands.

It has been hinted that Terwilliger is a "dope" fiend, but this is disregarded, as the man shows no symptoms of being a drug victim, although according to his own statement to an Advocate reporter Monday, he smoked cigarettes in great numbers.

The trouble of Saturday night, which culminated in the murder, was said to have been started on the return of the party from the Auditorium, when Mrs. Terwilliger spoke to her husband about a new hat that she wanted and he said he couldn't get it for her now. Some words followed, in which the lie was passed and Terwilliger is said to have threatened to slap his wife, whereupon Mrs. Nutter informed him that he would never dare strike her while in her (Mrs. Nutter's) home.

Wedding Night Quarrel.

It is said that Mrs. Terwilliger told her mother of a quarrel they had on the night of their marriage. The young woman suggested that they go some place, to a party, or some event that was going on the following evening, and he objected strenuously, flying into a violent fit of passionate rage.

Their disagreements and quarrels have continued frequently. It is said, since their marriage. Neighbors say that while they were residing on Spencer street they were frequently heard engaged in heated disputes and on one occasion the young woman's screams aroused the entire neighborhood.

Was Not Drunk.

The Nutter family are positive in their assertion that the murderer was not under the influence of intoxicants during the early part of the evening, but it is said that he brought some beer up to the house, but that he drank none of it. The parents of Mrs. Terwilliger assert that he was not a drinking man.

Terwilliger's History.

The confessed uxoricide came originally from Alden, N. Y., where his father, stepmother and three sisters, Florence, Mabel and Eva, now reside. He has lived in Newark for about two years, having come here from Dennison and accepted a position with the B. and O. railroad as fireman. His position with the railroad company he held but a short time, his engineer reporting that his work was unsatisfactory.

After leaving the B. and O. he was without work for some time and left for Gas City, Ind., where he has a sister, a Mrs. Johnson, and an uncle and grandmother living.

It was while he was there that Miss Barber went to visit with him and his people. While there, they were married without the consent of the young woman's parents. Upon learning of it they were much exercised, Mr. Barber absolutely refusing to receive Terwilliger into his household.

From Gas City the couple returned to Newark, later going to Columbus where he got a position as fireman on the Pennsylvania railroad. It is said that through inefficient service he was discharged and returned to Newark. For several weeks he remained here, the parents of the young woman finally consenting to receive them in their home for a time.

Terwilliger soon decided that they would get furnished rooms and do light housekeeping and boarding part of the time, which they did, securing rooms at the home of Archie Stasel, on Spencer street. They lived there about a month.

One week ago the night of the murder, the couple went to the Nutter home to live for awhile. Mrs. Nutter realizing that the young man was without work, but feeling that he would soon secure a position which he had in view at the Wehrle foundries.

He was only there a very short time until he reported that he broke a machine in the press room and was discharged. The family believed this until Sunday morning after the murder, when it was learned that the statement was false and that he had been discharged for other reasons.

He also informed the Nutter family that he was to take an examination for a position on the B. and O. again, and expected to see the examining physician Monday.

Well Known Couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Terwilliger are very well known over the city, the victim of the murder having attended school here and spent all of her short life among her friends in this city. She was popular and highly respected. For a short time prior to her marriage to Terwilliger she was employed by the Styron-Beggs Chemical company in the offices.

She was formerly a member of the junior choir of St. Paul's English Lutheran church. Her parents are also well known, Mr. Barber being a painter in the employ of the Ohio Electric Railway company. He is a prominent member of the local T. M. A.

The funeral services will be held at the parents' home, 65 Summit St., Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, where the body was taken Sunday forenoon. The Rev. John W. Weeter, pastor of St. Paul's, will officiate, and interment will be had in Cedar Hill cemetery. Special music will be furnished by selected voices.

The coroner's inquest was held at the Nutter home this afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock. Coroner Marriott, Deputy Coroner Wiyiarch, Chief Zergiebel and a number of witnesses were present, including Dr. I. N. Palmer, the young woman's physician, who was summoned after the murder.

Owing to the fact that Terwilliger has confessed to the murder, the deputy coroner announced that there would be no post mortem examination of the remains of the murdered woman.

THE POLICE ACT.

After the arrival of the police at the Nutter home, Chief Zergiebel and Officer Sutton made a complete investigation, and then seeing that the man suspected had disappeared, Chief Zergiebel notified all the day officers to be on the lookout for Terwilliger.

His description was furnished the men and Chief Zergiebel then started on a search in his own way. How true this method of the chief was is shown later by the events.

He argued that the fugitive would naturally go to a railroad if he wished to escape, and if he didn't he might look up some of his friends for protection. He trailed his man to East Newark and while walking along the street he met Edward Strear, caller for the B. & O. railroad. Strear said he had seen Terwilliger talking earlier in the day to Michael F. McGonagle, a fireman, living at 173 East Main street.

The chief hunted up McGonagle and to him Mr. McGonagle said that he had talked with Terwilliger, and Terwilliger had asked: "How do I look, I expect I look pretty tough for I have been out all night." According to Mr. McGonagle the man did not have a collar or a tie on.

The chief searched the railroad yards and walked to Hanover, there he met a man that knew Terwilliger's father, and to him the man said that at one time the elder Terwilliger had worked in Everett's, for he was a glass blower.

FALSE REPORT.

About noon the report was circulated that the man had been captured in Mansfield, but this report was not believed by the police for Chief Zergiebel's informants in the East End had seen him after 8 o'clock that morning. However Chief Weile of Mansfield was called, but he knew nothing about the arrest of Terwilliger and the hopes of the police were blasted.

Nothing daunted they worked harder than ever on the case and every possible clue was run down to the very end. All the yardmen and employees of the railroads were notified and about 6:20 Sunday night this precaution of the police brought results. J. H. Horn, yard clerk at the B. & O., telephoned police headquarters that Terwilliger was in the extreme east end of the yards and that he would hold him until the arrival of the police.

TERWILLIGER CAPTURED.

While Mr. Horn was telephoning he left two men to watch Terwilliger with orders to follow him if he left the little shanty. Officer T. H. Stewart, who has only been on the force about a month, but who has made a good record in that time, was at headquarters in citizen's clothes, and he was sent to make the arrest. Jumping on a bicycle he made a fast trip to the Barclay street crossing, and placed his man under arrest. As there were mutterings and threats against the prisoner, Officer Stewart, with rare judgment, took him into the home of August Beckman at the corner of Webb and Summer streets and held him there until the arrival of the patrol. Terwilliger was searched by the officer and a revolver, new, and of 32-calibre, was found in his hip pocket. It was a cheap gun, and contained five cartridges.

BIG CROWD GATHERED.

The report of Terwilliger's arrest spread like wildfire throughout the east end of the city and a crowd of several hundred men, women and children surrounded the Beckman home. The patrol, loaded with officers and in charge of Captain Bell made a fast run to the scene, the galloping horses and the clanging gong scattering the people right and left. No violence was attempted and the police kept a careful watch on the crowd to see that no move was made to get the prisoner.

UXORICIDE CONFESSES.

While the patrol was bumping along the street and over the car tracks leaving the crowd far behind, Terwilliger, the uxoricide, made a partial confession to the officers. But the full and complete confession was not made until the patrol had backed up to the door of the city prison and the prisoner taken to the court room, that the whole story was told. Then before Chief Zergiebel, Captain Bell, Officers Stewart and Greeley, Turnkey Swank and Coroner Marriott he told the story that will probably send him to the electric chair.

CONDITION PITIFUL.

The condition of Terwilliger was pitiful in the extreme, collarless, his hair matted and matted, his clothing matted and dirty, great tears rolled down his cheeks as with bowed head he told what he could of the taking of the life of his wife and that of the unborn babe. He said he had not slept since Friday night and had eaten nothing since the day before. Almost a nervous wreck he was fed and locked up in a cell for the night. The gathering of a crowd alarmed Turnkey Swank who feared that an attempt might be made to secure the prisoner, and he called Chief Zergiebel. The result of the conference was that the patrol was called and the prisoner was taken to the county jail.

REPORTER VISITS HIM.

Monday morning Chief Zergiebel, the Advocate police reporter and the staff photographer visited Terwilliger at the county jail and again to the newspaper man he told the story of the crime as he could remember it. Saturday his wife asked him for money to purchase some material she had seen in a store to make a corset cover. She also asked for money to buy a pair of stockings. He told her he would give her the money, and as they were to meet her mother, Mrs. Edward A. Barber, and Miss Lottie Barber that evening, his wife told them that she and her husband would meet them at the Griggs corner later in the evening after they had done their shopping.

ATTENDED THEATRE.

They visited the store to buy the material wanted by Mrs. Terwilliger, but as the stock was exhausted they walked around the square several times and then meeting his wife's relatives, the four then went to the Auditorium. As they passed a saloon the murderer left them with the remark that he was going to get a drink, and a moment later when he joined them he remarked that "had a beer." His wife chided him for drinking and asked him what he would think if she would drink. That was the only argument they had that evening according to Terwilliger.

RETIRED EARLY.

After the show the four walked down Second street to Harrison, and there Mrs. Barber and Miss Lottie left them. Mr. and Mrs. Terwilliger walked to their rooms at the Nutter home and sat on the porch for awhile awaiting the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Nutter. When Mr. Nutter came home he went to a nearby saloon and bought a can of beer and Terwilliger with the remark that "he would be back pretty soon," left them and went to the saloon where, by his own admission, he drank several beers and a glass of whiskey.

When he returned to his home his wife had gone up stairs and he followed her. This was about 10:30 o'clock, he remarked when questioned on this point. When they had retired she twitted him about not buying her things the way he used to, and told him that she was going back to live with her parents.

"It was terrible to hear her talk that way," he continued. "I had done everything for her I possibly could, and even left my folks and have been estranged from them ever since because I loved her and married her. I told her I owed money and had none to pay bills with, but she was unreasonable, and when she called me a vile name I grabbed her. Then I forgot everything, even when I awoke this morning I didn't know she was dead, and I don't know it yet, only people have said she was."

He cried during the entire interview, and the stress of excitement was so great that his nose commenced to bleed. He answered all questions readily enough and attempted to conceal nothing. When asked when he wrote the following note in his memorandum book, he replied that he was at the B. & O. shops and wrote it while sitting in an engine cab. The note which was found by the police was written in a common book that he kept expenses in and used for various notations about his work. On various leaves was written: "Earnest L. Terwilliger," "Mrs. E. L. Terwilliger." This message was written when he contemplated suicide.

THE MESSAGE.

The message was written in pencil and is more or less incoherent: "The finder of this note I will tell the cause of this misfortune that happened Saturday night, May 23, '08, and it would never happen if it had not been for my wife's mother. She would let her do things that was wrong and I am in debt and my troubles have been ever since I have been married and her mother trying to run my business and causing us to separate, and call me all the bad names you could think and nobody knows but me the rest of it which it would take a little time and write to explain the matter which God knows in heaven and know I will not have to suffer for all so I will bid you all goodbye. I am,

"EARNEST L. TERWILLIGER."

DID NOT SLEEP.

In regard to the way he spent the time his mind seems to be more or less blank, but he does say that he did not sleep any. Employees of the railroad saw him at various times during the night in the little shanties along the B. & O., but he did not stay in them and probably could not sleep as he has said. He denies that he wanted to leave town, and did not try to catch any freight trains. He did acknowledge that he had thought of committing suicide, but then he said: "I didn't see any use in doing that, for while I knew I hurt her, yet I didn't know she was dead. I didn't intend killing her."

Chief Zergiebel then asked him when he purchased the revolver, but the prisoner did not hear, or did not care to answer. When the question was again asked him by the reporter he replied that when he and his wife returned from his home in Alden, N. Y., the 30th of last March he bought the gun then. The gun was of the Bulldog pattern and cheap construction.

MAY KILL HIMSELF.

Turnkey Christopher is afraid the prisoner will make some attempt to end his life, and he is keeping close watch over him. When he is absent some of the prisoners watch the despondent man for him. When asked if he had any objection to sitting for a picture he replied he was perfectly willing to when it was for the Advocate, and he was posed in the office of the jail.

He is just twenty-one years of age and of slender build. When arrested he wore a brown suit and hat, black tie, oxfords and a white shirt.

THE AFFIDAVIT.

The affidavit formally charging Earnest L. Terwilliger with the murder of his wife Jessie Barber Terwilliger will be sworn to at 4 o'clock this afternoon by Edward A. Barber, father of the murdered girl, before Prosecuting Attorney James Fitzgibbon. It will be sworn to before Mayor Atherton and the hearing will probably be set for Tuesday morning.

OLD GODS IN CABINET GUISE.

"Mars" Taft, "Neptune" Metcalf, "Mercury" Meyer and "Ceres" Wilson.

Some of President Roosevelt's advisers got new names the other day Secretary Taft started the rechristening as he stood on the steps of the White House office building just before the hour for the regular semi-weekly cabinet session. He had stepped to speak to one of his friends when Secretary Wilson came up.

"How are you, Neptune? I hope you had a pleasant trip to the coast," exclaimed Secretary Taft.

"Thank you, Mars. I had a splendid time. The fleet is simply great," retorted the secretary of the navy.

"Here comes another of our brother gods, Mercury," continued Secretary Taft as Postmaster General Meyer alighted from his carriage.

"And I suppose the one arriving now is Ceres," exclaimed a bystander as Secretary Wilson of the department of agriculture swung into view.

Secretary Taft, Postmaster General Meyer and Secretary Metcalf all shouted with laughter at the idea. "Imagine dear old Ceres in a pling hat and pants!" cried Secretary Taft as he surveyed the dignified farmer representative of the administration.

"The American Senate is a sort of vermiform appendix to the body politic," declared Prof. Charles Zueblin, of the University of Chicago, who is well known in Newark, in an address before the Psi Upsilon Alumni Association, speaking on "The Pathway of Our Government."

"In truth," he continued, "we elect members of a pleasant club which meets at Washington. Besides Speaker Cannon, the czar is a modest and unassuming gentleman. We are the most hide-bound, unthinking people that ever were so conceited as to attempt self-government."

House of Representatives, Washington, D. C., May 23, '08.

Gentlemen: I am sending today by mail three bags of books, containing fifty volumes. A complete set of the American Ethnology, including the bulletins. Some of these volumes were exhausted, but I picked them up at a second hand bookstore and had them all rebound. I believe you will be pleased with them, and that they will make a very valuable addition to your library. I hope to be able to get some more books for you. I assure you of my desire to aid you in this most estimable work. With kind regards, I am,

Very respectfully,

SPECIAL GRAND ARMY NEWSPAPER EDITION

The Advocate acknowledges with pleasure the receipt of the G. A. R. Encampment number of the Republican-Gazette, published at Lima, Ohio, of date of Sunday, May 24. The paper consists of 48 pages, filled with interesting miscellany and news, but generally composed of matter relating to the Grand Army encampment to be held in Lima June 15-18, inclusive, telling the readers of the good time in store for all who visit Lima during that week. The edition is a great credit to the Republican-Gazette company and an exceeding valuable and interesting forerunner of the coming great event in Lima.

The members of the Grand Army in Newark and all other soldier organizations and the board of trade are working hard to get the G. A. R. here next year, and every public-spirited citizen should put his shoulder to the wheel and help make the effort a success. It can be done if each one only does his duty.

You have tried the rest. Now try the best—Admiral Coffee.
